Community by Elizabeth Minor

Every generation has its moment in which to rise, and when that moment occurs, keep your eyes open enough to recognize that this is happening and to... I don't mean to sound self-righteous, but be on the right side of history, do the right thing. Support the folks that strive for peace and justice. And support how you can, the well being of all humans and all people within our community, and base your life out of love and not hate. Love is always gonna win. --Sam Miltich
