

Survive & Thrive: A Journal for Medical Humanities and Narrative as Medicine

Volume 7
Issue 1 General Issue

Article 5

2022

Mushroom in Excrement yet Sequin-Gowned for the Ball

Brent R. Carr
University of Florida

Follow this and additional works at: https://repository.stcloudstate.edu/survive_thrive

Part of the Medical Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation

Carr, Brent R. (2022) "Mushroom in Excrement yet Sequin-Gowned for the Ball," Survive & Thrive: A Journal for Medical Humanities and Narrative as Medicine: Vol. 7: Iss. 1, Article 5.

Available at: https://repository.stcloudstate.edu/survive_thrive/vol7/iss1/5

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by The Repository at St. Cloud State. It has been accepted for inclusion in Survive & Thrive: A Journal for Medical Humanities and Narrative as Medicine by an authorized editor of The Repository at St. Cloud State. For more information, please contact tdsteman@stcloudstate.edu.

Mushroom in Excrement yet Sequin-Gowned for the Ball

Cover Page Footnote

When we still our minds and filter out the surrounding minutia we can see newfound beauty that surrounds us. The same quiet reflection finds beauty in others, within ourselves. Here, a quiet morning's mushroom shimmers in full ballroom glory, glimmering with dewdrops as sequins reflecting early sunrise. With quiet mind and steady camera, I filter out the manure of the wild horse and focus on the mushroom's splendor that outshines the refuse pile from which it draws its source of life.

Mushroom in Excrement yet Sequin-Gowned for the Ball

Brent R. Carr (University of Florida)

When we still our minds and filter out the surrounding minutia we can see newfound beauty that surrounds us. The same quiet reflection finds beauty in others, within ourselves. Here, a quiet morning's mushroom shimmers in full ballroom glory, glimmering with dewdrops as sequins reflecting early sunrise. With quiet mind and steady camera, I filter out the manure of the wild horse and focus on the mushroom's splendor that outshines the refuse pile from which it draws its source of life.
