

Survive & Thrive: A Journal for Medical Humanities and Narrative as Medicine

Volume 9
Issue 4 Voices of the Incarcerated

Article 9

October 2024

"Invasion"

Ramsceair Jacques Flemmings

Susan Scheckel
SUNY

Follow this and additional works at: https://repository.stcloudstate.edu/survive_thrive

Part of the Medical Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation

Ramsceair Jacques Flemmings and Scheckel, Susan (2024) ""Invasion", Survive & Thrive: A Journal for Medical Humanities and Narrative as Medicine: Vol. 9: Iss. 4, Article 9.

Available at: https://repository.stcloudstate.edu/survive_thrive/vol9/iss4/9

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by The Repository at St. Cloud State. It has been accepted for inclusion in Survive & Thrive: A Journal for Medical Humanities and Narrative as Medicine by an authorized editor of The Repository at St. Cloud State. For more information, please contact tdsteman@stcloudstate.edu.

“Invasion”
by Flemmings, Ramsceair Jacques

Staring upward at the ceiling — unable to rest, my heart suffers from this tormenting doom.
Although the brightness from the sun radiates throughout,
the potent darkness still invades this room,
Drilling into its depths, looking for more than enough,
which it has already caused to erode,
Never ending its nocturnal warmth as it builds
its foundation for another abode, Evolving the gentle days into greyish sights for only the familiar ones of its kind to enter.
Stars of the heavens no longer around, as all of the unknown have been branded as forbidden.
Severing my ties with all lives, becoming lost,
in this place where melancholy keeps me hidden.