

3028 Q Street, N.W.,
Washington, D.C.,
October 12. 1926.

Dear Freeman:-

I was delighted to hear from you and glad to know that everything is getting properly started. We are now thoroughly well settled here in Washington and I am very hard at work on the new book. We haven't seen much of anyone since we got here, nor have I seen much of the city except between 3028 Q Street and a sort of office which I have taken in a hotel.

Your father tells me that you have only 11 days at Christmas, which will be too short a time for you to go to Minnesota, and both Grace and I hope tremendously that you will be able to come and spend Christmas with us. Do you think you can? Let me know your definite dates, if you can.

We may perhaps ask you to do something for us—go from Cambridge to Dearfield, Mass., and bring Wells down with you. We did not find any schools in Washington that we particularly liked so Wells is there at the really very delightful Eagle Brook School.

Ever yours,
SL